RUSSIAN FRONT—Red forces, outflanking Kustrin, have captured Barwalde, important road junction, six miles from the Oder river, and are driving toward Stettin, Baltic seaport, after pouring through Soldin in great strength. Operating within 38 miles of Berlin, Soviet troops are reported gaining on all fronts. A flanking movement below Frankfurt brought the Russians west of Ziebingen, which fell to them yesterday.

Hodges' Army Fights 13 Miles Inside Reich

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, Feb. 5 (AP)—The American 1st Army fought 13 miles deep into Germany today within a mile of the Siegfried line towns of Gemund and Schleiden, and was reported in battle dispatches to have broken clean through the last of a double row of fortifications between the fortresses.

The German radio said Lt. Gen. Hodges' infantry had entered Schleiden but were expelled. The Americans reached within 28 miles of the Rhine and the city of Bonn.

Just north of the Siegfried line break, infantry advanced to the Urf lake within sight of the first Roer river dams controlling flood levels on that barrier stream before Cologne.

(A Blue Network broadcast said today "American troops have broken through the Siegfried line at all important points east of Monschau and are astride two big Roer river dams.")

South in Alsace, the Colmar death pocket fast was becoming just a memory. French and American troops driving into the cross-Rhine pocket south of Strasbourg moved within eight miles of a junction that would split and dissolve the German front.

Fighting within a mile of Neuf-Brisach, the U. S. 21st Corps shelled repeatedly the steel and concrete rail bridge across the Rhine. More than a dozen Alsatian towns including Cernay were taken.

The U. S. Third Army, fighting six miles inside Germany south of Hodges' command, advanced within 3½ miles of Prum, one of the stoutest Siegfried line defensive points.

The First Army front, like that of the U. S. Ninth Army along the Roer to the north within 20 miles of Cologne, was wholly inside Germany. Hodges' divisions were within 16 miles of the major traffic center of Euskirchen, the capture of which would embarrass German communications between the north and south ends of the whole western front.

Supreme headquarters had no confirmation of front reports that the Americans had burst into the open beyond the last Siegfried fortifications.

Altogether, four divisions of the First Army were pouring through breaches of the Siegfried belt of Siegfried Line fortifications.

Though storms and freezing rain made observation difficult, RAF heavy bombers overnight battered Bonn while smaller bombers tangled rail targets in the great triangle formed by WESTERN FRONT—U. S. First Army forces have ripped a hole in the German Westwall, capturing Wallseifen, to turn back the Nazi Roer river defenses. Driving to within a mile and a half of the Roer river dams where the Nazis had been opening floodgates to prevent an Allied breakthrough by flooding the valley, the doughboys overpowered the last system of German pillboxes.

Hamm, Cologne and Coblenz. They extended their attacks back to Hannover and Magdeburg.

The Third Army had overrun 65 square miles of Germany. Resistance was only moderate and the Third Army again found some pillboxes unmaneuvered.

A French First Army communiqué reported the capture of 2200 prisoners and much booty in dissolving the Colmar pocket. The French First Corps cleared the Thur river from Cernay to Ensisheim and the communiqué said "the United States 21st Corps broke the defenses of Neuf-Brisach one after another."

Blasted Berlin 30 Miles Away

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP)—German and Russian guns duelled across the Oder today and Marshal Zhukov moved First White Russian Army tanks and infantry to the river line along a front of 140 miles, threatening to outflank Berlin through northern Germany as well as in the south.

Allies Retake Italian Town

ROME, Feb. 5 (AP)—Fifth Army troops have recaptured Galliano in the Serchio valley area on the Italian coast against only slight enemy opposition, Allied headquarters announced today.

Other advances were made along the Serchio river, regaining ground lost in December.

In the central front area south and southeast of Bologna strong Fifth Army raiding patrols ran into considerable German resistance.

Germans Told 'No Surrender'

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP)—German radio propagandists stepped up their campaign for last ditch resistance today as reports that the Big 3 conference already is under way gained general acceptance.

The Berlin radio warned the German people they could expect from President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin a new appeal to desert their present leaders and surrender.

"But this time the Germans will not be taken in by this childish device," the broadcast added.

Elas' Treason Trials Deferred

ATHENS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Preparations for trial of Elías participants accused of treason in connection with the recent civil strife in Greece were deferred today by order of the government pending conclusion of peace negotiations with the Left Wingers.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (INS)—The Tokyo Domei agency said today American troops had landed Jan. 18 on Jolo island, largest of the Sulu group, lying midway between Mindanao and Borneo, with a force made up of 3000 troops and "more than 10 tanks."

Poland to Take Over Silesia, East Prussia

By DANIEL DE LUCE

WARSAW, Feb. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—Boleslaw Bierut, president of the Polish National Council, announced at a press conference today that Poland is immediately assuming control of civil administration in German Silesia and East Prussia. A representative of the Warsaw provisional government has already arrived at Oppeln, first large city on the Oder to be occupied by the Red Army in its drive through Silesia, he disclosed.

Similar steps to organize civil affairs will be taken elsewhere in Silesia, including Breslau, and in East Prussia as soon as military conditions permit, Bierut said.

"There will be Polish administration on what we regard as Polish soil, regardless of opinions to be expressed in international conferences," he asserted. "We've seen the attitude of the major powers. We don't think anyone will interfere with us."

The question of the Teschen area, the rich coal mining district annexed by Poland from Czechoslovakia in 1939, will be taken up in friendly negotiations, he added. Bierut made it plain that his government would complete Poland's expansion along the Oder from its mouth to southern Brandenburg, and along the Neisse where it falls into the Oder some 30 miles south of Frankfurt to the foot of the Sudeten mountains.

In East Prussia, the distribution of Lithuanian and Polish populations there will determine the frontier, he said.

He intimated that the northern section of East Prussia, including Königsberg, would probably lie within the borders of the Lithuanian Soviet Republic, while the remainder would be taken by Poland.

"The Germans grabbed Polish lands in East Prussia although they had been Polish for centuries," he said. "These must be returned to Poland. Our administrators will go there when the fighting is concluded."

He said that at his last meeting with Prime Minister Churchill in Moscow, "I asked him about support of Poland's policy regarding East Prussia and he replied it was obvious."

Zhukov's tanks thrusting toward Stettin in a threat to topple that port and circle Berlin were traveling in radio silence, Moscow said, but were believed to be cutting behind enemy groups and causing great damage.

German accounts, far ahead of official Moscow announcements, told of Red penetrations to the area of Schwedt, on the Oder, 28 miles south of Stettin, and the region of Pyritz, 22 miles south-east of Stettin.

Simultaneously, Zhukov's forces in the Frankfurt bulge between the Oder and Warthe poised a southward flanking threat by the capture of Ziebingen, 13 miles southeast of Frankfurt and five miles from the Oder.

German underground reports in London said the Germans already were building flying bomb ramps 50 miles west of Berlin and facing the German capital for use against the city if it falls to the Russians.

Moscow dispatches failed to bear out German reports of Russian attempts already made to cross the formidable Oder in the Frankfurt-Kustrin area, where it is nearly 1000 feet wide, but said widespread mopping up was going on in numerous pockets along the river stretching from south of Stettin to the hinge midway between Frankfurt and Breslau where the First White Russian and First Ukrainian armies met.

More than 100 villages, some close to the Oder and others on its banks, were captured.

Heavy Soviet artillery hammered Kustrin and its twin fortress city of Frankfurt as well as numerous railheads, and Moscow said furious tank and infantry engagements were taking place.

Moscow dispatches said it was highly probable Marshal Konev again had gone into action from his Oder bridgeheads in Silesia, but had no confirmation of Berlin reports that the one bridgehead at Brieg between Oppeln and Breslau had been deepened to 12 miles and had reached Grotkau.

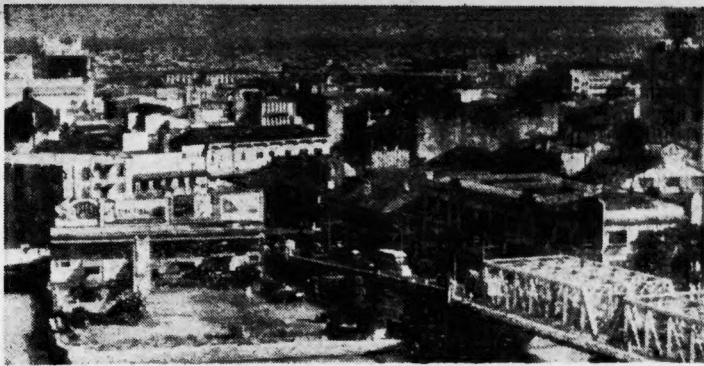

In East Prussia German resistance was in its final stages, with enemy-held territory reduced to 800 square miles and practically every small port in the Königsberg area in Russian hands.

The Russian communiqué also announced new gains north and northwest of Königsberg in East Prussia that split the German forces on the Samland peninsula, where the Nazis were being pressed against the Baltic and annihilated.

The Soviet war bulletin said large groups of German soldiers surrendered in that sector after first killing SS officers "who forced them to continue the struggle."

Nazis Claim Sinking Of 14 Allied Ships

By the Associated Press
German U-boats "in grim fighting against enemy supply service," sank 10 supply ships of 67,000 tons, a troop transport of 20,000 tons, and three escort vessels in the waters around England, the German command claimed today.

Eyewitnesses Reveal Drama

Eyewitness stories of the liberation of Manila flashed in dramatic detail today from five Boston American war correspondents with the advance forces: Lee Van Atta of International News Service, John Leonard of Reuter's, Russell Brines, Dean Schedler and Fred Hampson of Associated Press. Here are their stories:

By DEAN SCHEDLER AND
FRED HAMPSON

SANTO TOMAS PRISON CAMP, Manila, Feb. 5 (AP)—Liberty was a steel tank with a 75-mm gun for a torch and a white star on its tempered flank. The driver slipped the clutch and Liberty idled before the chipped gate of this war prison which held— we prayed—some 3000 men, women and children of the United Nations.

"Open up!" roared the tank commander.

No hand appeared to slip the gate's bolts.

"Open the — thing or I'm coming anyway," the commander shouted. Again the order brought no response.

Inside the prison a low speculative murmur had risen to a crescendo of cries with overtones of fear and doubt and hope. The prisoners sensed that this was not just another of the inexplicable Japanese orgies. The voice beyond the gate was American and contained a resolution of its own kind. But the gate did not open.

"Go on in," the tank commander directed quietly, "but don't shoot unless you have to. And be sure they're Japs."

The snorting tank pushed against the gate. The engine clattered. The gate groaned, cracked and crashed under the treads.

Prisoners, gaunt, hollow-eyed, afraid of their own hopes, poured from the buildings. In the gathering dusk they saw this was an American tank. And as from a single throat they poured out an agonizing cry of relief and thanks and welcome.

Young Wife Tells Starvation Fare As Jap Prisoner

As Told to Frank Robertson
MANILA, Feb. 5 (INS)—Boiled hibiscus leaves were worst, but we didn't eat these very long because camp doctors discovered they were slightly poisonous.

Boiled roots of banana plant came next, then talinuo, a green weed which could be cooked or eaten as a salad.

Corneal mush was good and tough carabao meat which we had on rare occasions was wonderful. Last Christmas we got a spoonful of jam each, and that was heaven.

During the first year or so of our stay, food could be bought through Filipinos and we were able to supplement our ration, but when the military took over the camp in February, 1943, this stopped.

Only last week a woman living next to me traded a $700 ring for 10 pounds of rice for her little girl and boy.

One had to be a very rich person to buy food from the outside. If you could get someone in the camp to cash a check you likely would be charged 200 per cent interest—a $300 check would get you $100 cash with which could be bought two pounds of sugar or four pounds of rice.

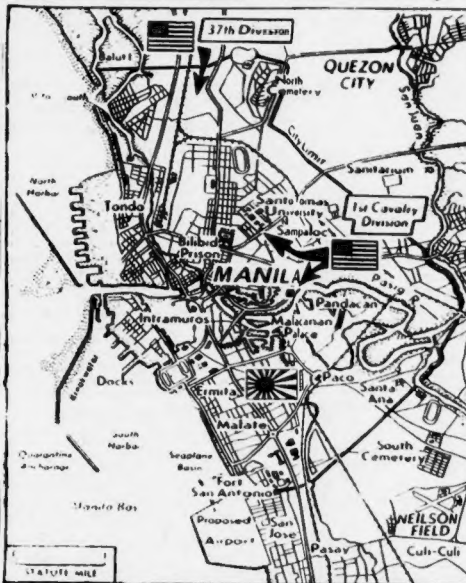

Jap guards willingly accepted our jewelry for small quantities of food.

Many people, who, like us, lost everything will be destitute when they leave here. Some will have enormous debts.

My husband and I lived carefully and frugally, yet during 1944 we were forced to borrow the equivalent of $1100 American.

Their release freed more than 250 American and British internees who had been held as hostages by Japs for 36 hours.

Release of the hostages brought the number of freed internees to 4000. More than 3700 had been rescued earlier by First Cavalry troops. Many were American women and children.

The Japs, led by Lt. Col. Hayashi, Santo Tomas commandant, took refuge in the education building, which is about 50 yards from the main administration building, when Yank cavalrymen broke into the university grounds Saturday night.

Up until last night the Japs fired on the American soldiers on the campus. The Americans returned the fire, but yesterday morning the Japs fell back to the first floor, mingling with internees, and then to the second and third floors.

The Americans were powerless to return the fire for fear of hitting the internees.

Yesterday, Col. Hayashi opened negotiations with Lt. Col. Charles Brady of Wethorn, N. J., executive officer of the cavalry brigade commanded by Brig. Gen. William Chase of El Paso, Tex.

Col. Brady was accompanied by an English missionary, Ernest Stanley, who acted as interpreter.

The commander of the Japanese forces which opposed the cavalrymen in the building-to-building and room-to-room defense of the university made the following offer to Chase:

"I will turn over hostages safely to you provided you give me and my soldiers safe conduct with our arms to Manila's city limits."

The enemy commander evidently did not realize that Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger's U. S. Eighth Army forces coming up from Nichols Field had him in a pincer, but this correspondent learned that Chase was planning to negotiate the transfer of hostages and escort for the Jap commander—who apparently is ex-

Many New Englanders Freed

Five New England Army nurses, several Greater Boston missionaries and a New Bedford textile executive are believed to be included in scores of New Englanders among more than 3000 Japanese prisoners freed from the Santo Tomas internment camp in Manila.

Relatives today awaited official word of their kin from the War Department.

Lt. Helen Cassiani, 28, one of the nurses who has been administering to the ailments of interned Americans at Santo Tomas since the fall of Corregidor, will learn that her mother, Mrs. Sara Cassiani, 59, of Highland st., Bridgewater, died Tuesday.

Frank L. Neill

37, said her mother died from old shock brought on by overwrought emotions when she received two postcards from her missing daughter, the first word in more than a year.

Mrs. Cassiani, torn by worry and grief, had written daily to the nurse, hopeful that some of her messages would get through. In the replying postcard messages that arrived less than three weeks ago, and dated May and June, 1944, Lt. Cassiani said she was well and expressed her happiness at learning of the birth of a niece. She sent congratulations to her brother Louis, 34, father of Roberta Cassiani—but he had died last August.

Little Roberta is now 2½ years

"My sister's going to find an awful difference when she comes home," said Rose, "all that's left of my family now are my brother Charles and I. Roberta is with

War Children's Education Urged

W. Rea Long, director of the division of veterans' aid and pensions, favored legislation today to provide higher education for children of veterans killed in the war.

Long spoke on behalf of a measure before the joint legislative committee on education in which Rep. George E. Rawson of Newton seeks to have a present law relating to education of children of World War I veterans extended to cover orphaned children of servicemen in World War II.

Under the present law, he said, children of World War I veterans who were killed can obtain up to $250 for higher education between the ages of 16 and 22.

Raymond A. Fitzgerald, representing the State Department of Education, favored the measure and said normally about 100 children of veterans of the last war made use of the appropriation. There was no opposition.

Also unopposed was a bill filed by Rep. S. G. Wondolowski, of Worcester, under which the department of education would be authorized to establish free college training for World War I veterans.

In a third measure, Rep. Florence G. Cook, Boston, proposed that university extension courses be available without charge to veterans.

JOHN F. MUCH IMPROVED

The condition of former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, at St. Margaret's Hospital with a severe attack of rheumatism, was reported today as much improved.

materially in alleviating substandard housing conditions in which hundreds of soldiers' families are living in Greater Boston, Army officials said today.

This double praise for the clubroom project, sponsored by Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser and endorsed by the Boston School Committee, followed disclosure by Maj. Edward Sherman, director of the Personal Affairs Division of the First Service Command, that many soldiers' dependents are living in homes without bathtubs or plumbing.

Maj. Sherman, charging that Boston long has been negligent toward servicemen, termed the housing situation here as his No. 1 grievance. He said the principal problem of his department is the housing of families of soldiers suddenly shifted to the fighting fronts.

Although admitting the public school clubroom plan did not offer a complete solution, other Army officials said the project would brighten the outlook of servicemen's dependent.

The clubrooms will offer wives, mothers and children of soldiers and sailors opportunity for a change, diversification of daily routine and the chance for mutual discussion of personal problems.

Meanwhile, as plans for the opening of the school clubrooms went speedily ahead, the Boston Record-American-Advertiser announced a $150 War Bond contest for an official name for the new centers.

The contestant who sends in the prize-winning name for the clubrooms will receive a $100 War Bond. An additional $50 bond will go to the person submitting the name adjudged second best.

The contest will be limited to wives and mothers of members of the armed forces and judges will be members of the Boston School Committee. Entries should be sent to the Contest Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

Arrangements for the opening of the school clubroom centers was made with the enthusiastic co-operation of the entire membership of the school committee and full facilities of the schools will be made available in the experiment.

Complete details of the service centers project will be worked out at a meeting of the school committee tomorrow evening, to be followed by announcement of the times, places and other arrangements for the first club center meetings.

Tentative plans provide for the use of teachers, school nurses and attendants at the centers, where wives and mothers and other relatives of boys on the fighting fronts will have a meeting place where they can discuss their problems.

Rationed Wallop

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Daniel Tierney, mother of seven, related this story in Brooklyn court.

She waited three hours at a butcher shop for meat. Finally she obtained a five-pound steak. During a dispute, her husband hit her in the face with the shank.

Magistrate Charles E. Ramsdell was incredulous.

"Do you mean a steak, a real steak?" he demanded.

Mrs. Tierney assured him she did. The magistrate held the husband in $500 bail on a disorderly conduct charge.

Jap Fliers Routed Over Ledo Road

Slight improvement was reported today in the condition of 21-month-old Herbert Smith of Lynn st., Quincy, seriously burned on the face and arm when he pulled a pot from the kitchen stove in his home, spilling scalding water on himself.

HOME AFTER 62 MISSIONS—Lt. Ralph C. Gould, 22, of South Portland, Me., is shown in happy reunion with his wife, Theresa, on his return from the Mediterranean and European theaters of operations where he participated in 62 bombing missions as pilot of a B-29 Marauder. Now on a 21-day leave, the lieutenant and his wife are visiting relatives in Boston.

War Widow Calls on All Women With Lost Kin to Aid World Peace

"No more the husband's counsel
And I must father and mother be,
Oh women of the world, arise!
Arise, and rid us of this horror!
Form companies of women all over the world,
Of women who have known the inner pain,
Whose dearest men folk have been slain,
Or wounded in spirit or body;
Women to lead the whole world on to love and selflessness . . ."

Mrs. Aurel Raymond Lucien Saquet of Hanson st., South End, today wrote from her sorrow this cry to all women who have lost dear ones in this war.

"I look forward, because my husband looked forward and always saw whatever beauty might grow from ugliness," she said.

Her husband, Cpl. Saquet, was killed last September in Nancy, France, where he was fighting with the field artillery in the very neighborhood where he was born.

"In his last letter, he described the destruction of his beloved countryside, but reminded me that the flowers were blooming just the same," Mrs. Saquet said.

Never forgetting his love of life, Mrs. Saquet gave thanks that a baby girl, Jeanne, was born to her Jan. 21.

"I now have five to bring up—

Raymond, 7; Richard, 5; Robert, 3, and Roger, 2, are the others. I shall try to support them by selling poetry and music I have written, perhaps by teaching art and science again in the Boston public schools," she said.

Cpl. Saquet, a landscape painter, met his wife in Paris when she was studying singing there. They were married and came to Boston to make their residence here.

"He left his homeland for my sake, and returned to die there for the same reason. Although the going will be rough, we must all live and work, for their sakes, with love—so much love that hate and war will be killed forever."

N. Y. Tanker Blast Kills 6

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (INS)—Six men were reported killed, and between 50 and 60 injured in the explosion of an oil tanker today in the narrows, between Brooklyn and Staten Island.

Another tanker and a tug boat which went to the aid of the blazing vessel also caught fire.

Pennsylvania Trains Crash Injures 12

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP)—Twelve persons suffered minor injuries when the Iron City express and a locomotive and tender collided head-on two miles east of here early today, the Pennsylvania R. R. announced.

The express train's electric engine and locomotive were damaged, but no coaches were derailed and traffic was delayed only briefly, officials said.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Air Chief Marshal Trafford Leigh-Mallory, lost en route to his post as air commander-in-chief in southeast Asia, has been succeeded by Air Marshal Sir Keith Park air officer commander-in-chief in the Middle East since January, 1944.

WINDOWS OPEN OR SHUT, YOU CAN BE HEALTHY REGARDLESS

Dr. Alvan L. Barach, of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, wrote to Mayor La Guardia to challenge the theory that keeping bedroom windows open at night is necessary to health. Prompted by the coal shortage, he said fuel is wasted and respiratory diseases may be incurred by the practice. Dr. Barach is an authority on the effects of breathing air of all sorts. The statement attracted considerable attention and sent Science Editor Blakeslee on a check of all angles of the subject.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—You can open your bedroom window just an inch, you can open all windows wide all night, or you can nail them shut, and all will be perfectly reasonable acts.

It is not how wide the windows are open that counts, but what you know about using them. All three ways can be made to work.

The important thing is never to get chilled. It is easier to become chilled at night than in the day, because if chilling starts while you are asleep, it may go to risky lengths before you awake.

Chilling probably is the condition in which more ills can start than in any other.

The belief of most people that fresh air is good for them is soundly grounded. Medical authorities think fresh air stimulates digestion, metabolism, nerves and may raise resistance to disease. They think that bad air often may cause lassitude, headache, vertigo or nausea.

But the principal cause of these bad effects is not so much the air itself as undue heat or humidity that may interfere with the body's ability to get rid of its excess heat. Very dry air, by causing rapid skin evaporation, can cause a sensation of chilliness.

Crowding of too many people into a room is likely to be bad, even with windows open for ventilation, but it is the crowding rather than the air that is responsible.

Even with windows nailed shut, no ordinarily well built house is air-tight enough to be dangerous. Oxygen seeps into a shut room through the best windows and doors.

If you are one of those persons who has not learned the tricks of wide open window sleeping, you can probably get about as good results by opening the windows just before retiring to air the room thoroughly, then closing them all but an inch, more or less, depending on the outdoor weather.

There are pitfalls. For example, if the windows are open too long, the walls and ceiling become chilled. And as long as it lasts, this chill will work insidiously, draining radiant heat from your body.

Of more importance, there are many types of people. Some have metabolism, or heat-producing systems, which slow down when they go to bed, particularly during sleep. These people need more warmth than others.

Named for Film Honors

Fitzgerald in Line for Honor

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5 (AP)—Barry Fitzgerald, who looks a little like a grinning Popeye with a mustache, has made "Oscar" history.

The twinking little 56-year-old Irishman has been nominated for two 1944 honors by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences: Best performance by an actor and best performance by a supporting actor.

It's an accolade, the academy says, never before accorded.

Fitzgerald gets the double nomination for his portrayal of a crotchety, lovable priest in "Going My Way."

This picture was picked as one of the year's best five; its star, Bing Crosby, was another nominee, and Leo McCarey, who directed its production, got into the best-directing selections.

After a vote of some 9000 movie workers to pick winners, Oscars will be presented the night of March 15.

Other pictures nominated were "Double Indemnity," "Gaslight," "Since You Went Away" and "Wilson."

Other best-actor nominees are Charles Boyer for his performance in "Gaslight," Cary Grant for "None But the Lonely Heart" and Alexander Knox for portraying a wartime President in "Wilson."

Actresses who made the nominations list are Ingrid Bergman in "Gaslight," Claudette Colbert for "Since You Went Away," Bette Davis for "Mr. Skeffington," Greer Garson for "Mrs. Parkington" and Barbara Stanwyck for "Double Indemnity."

Other actors nominated for best supporting performance are Hume Cronyn in "The Seventh Cross," Claude Rains in "Mr. Skeffington," Clifton Webb in "Laura" and Monty Woolley in "Since You Went Away."

Jennifer Jones, who won a best-actress award last year for her portrayal in "The Song of Bernadette," got into the feminine supporting-role division for "Since You Went Away." Others nominated in this group were Ethel Barrymore for "None But the Lonely Heart," Angela Lansbury for "Gaslight," Aline MacMahon for "Dragon Seed," and Agnes Moorehead for "Mrs. Parkington."

McCarey shared best-directing honors in the nominations with Billy Wilder ("Double Indemnity"), Otto Preminger ("Laura"), Alfred Hitchcock ("Lifeboat") and Henry King ("Wilson").

Storm Tangles Roads; Fuel Supply Again Hit

Boston and New England's dwindling fuel supplies were threatened anew today as an overnight snowstorm again tangled transportation and brought about the most hazardous driving conditions of the winter. Two to six inches of snow covered the icy highways.

Several persons were injured and numerous accidents were reported as autos skidded. Thousands were late for work as the fresh snowfall delayed autos, trains and buses.

Clearing and colder weather with falling temperatures was predicted tonight and tomorrow. Although the average fall was from two to six inches, huge drifts were piled up in many areas, some going from 10 to 12 feet in parts of Western Massachusetts.

Fresh snowfalls in upper New York state brought new concern to this area as thousands of cars, with coal destined for New England, remained buried under the latest burden of snow. Several inches of fresh snow were reported through upper New York State.

Boston weather bureau officials reported the fresh snow had brought a total snow cover of from two to three feet in most areas of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont while in the remaining states it ranged from a few inches along the coastline to depths of two feet in the Berkshire area.

Four persons were injured, one critically, in a head-on collision between an auto and street car in Quincy sq. at the height of the snowstorm. The name of Mrs. Mary McElm of Davis st., Quincy, who suffered a fractured skull, was placed on the danger list at Quincy City Hospital.

Also at the hospital with lesser injuries were her husband, Leon, 37; Mrs. Mary Martin of Davis st. and Army Sgt. Jeffie Brown. All were occupants of the auto.

In Brighton, Dr. Samuel Gerber, Commonwealth eye, dentist, suffered possible internal injuries when his auto skidded into the path of an outboard Elevated car at Commonwealth ave. and Colborne rd. He was held for treatment at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Ohio Amusement Spots Locked Tight

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 5 (AP)—Home and fireade—if there is any coal with which to build a fire—will be popular in Ohio tonight.

There just won't be anywhere to go because places of amusement—motion picture theaters, taverns, night clubs and the like—will be locked tight in compliance with the state-wide five-day week asked by Gov. Lausche to reduce consumption of coal and gas.

The situation isn't without its lighter side.

The other day a man called the emergency coal office in Columbus' City Hall in an effort to get some coal.

Asked the name of his regular dealer, he said he had none. It then developed he had been pilfering his coal, but there was none left at his regular source of supply.

Soldiers to Aid Traffic Ties

CAMP REYNOLDS, Pa., Feb. 5 (AP)—More than 100 soldiers are en route from Camp Reynolds to Detroit where they will take over new Army trucks and drive them to the East Coast, to relieve critical traffic tie-ups. Three other soldiers are en route to Buffalo, N. Y., to work as railroad brakemen for the next two weeks.

Superforts Set 34 Fires in Kobe

B-29 BOMBER HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Feb. 5 (AP)—Returning pilots from the first Superfortress raid on Kobe, Japan, reported today that more than 34 fires were visible as they left the city.

Twelve of the large ones were burning fiercely along the western edge of the Mitsubishi heavy industries, which is primarily a ship-building plant covering 10,000,000 square feet and containing 18 main buildings.

Other fires sprang up almost immediately in the center of the city. Two others were seen in the most congested part of Japan's sixth largest city, near the waterfront.

The sizable force encountered moderate fighter opposition and moderate antiaircraft defenses but no B-29s were lost in combat.

BATAAN PRISONER ANSWERS KIN QUIZ—Cpl. Willard E. Hall, of Portland, Ore., who escaped from the Japanese after being captured on Bataan, answers questions of some of the 3000 tear-eyed relatives whose sons and husbands are interned by the Nipponese, at the First Corps Cadet Army. He is one of a dozen former prisoners of war who are touring the country, under Red Cross sponsorship, to help alleviate the pain and fears of prisoners' kin. SNAP by Bruce McLean tremely reasonable for a Nip Samurai code believer — to the edge of this presently-embattled city.

Despite the fact they were being held as hostages, troops partially hidden in the courtyards below talked cheerfully to the men, women and children in the second-story rooms—calling words of encouragement and filling them in with the latest news, especially of developments in the Pacific fighting.

At the same time, the Yanks were answering many personal questions put to them by the still-imprisoned civilians.

It was a strangely paradoxical sight to see the imprisoned civilians talking to free soldiers while Chase and the Jap commander decide the fate of those people who have known no freedom since Christmas of 1941.

(Arthur Feldman in a Blue network broadcast from Santo Tomas today quoted Lucien L. Rock, former Manila oil man, as saying "the Japanese privates inside were scared and wanted to surrender but the non-coms were tough about it.")

(The highest ranking Jap in the group, Feldman reported, was a Lt. Shirati from the Jap war prisoners' headquarters who was in charge of feeding the internees and who was largely responsible for their starvation diet.)

(Feldman reported: "Rock said, 'It's a damn shame that sneak got away.'")

("The most pitiful sight here is seeing the frail, thin, spindleg-legged children of the internees," said Feldman. "Internees tell me their diet consisted of rice and salt water and that the Japs delighted in slapping their faces and making them bow even to Jap civilians. A huge convoy of food, medicine and hospital equipment is now nearing Manila.")

Paratroopers Push Toward Manila

MacARTHUR HEADQUARTERS, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Stars and Stripes flew over half of Manila today and thousands of American and British civilian prisoners were free as Yank columns, including a new paratroop regiment landed to the south, pressed against little more than sniper fire toward complete liberation of the Philippine capital.

First Cavalry and 37th Infantry Division forces controlled the northern part of Manila and had penetrated as far south as the wide and deep Pasig river, which divides the city.

The First Cavalry Yanks, in an encircling move by night, spearheaded immediately to the Santo Tomas internment camp from the east and liberated perhaps 3000 civilian prisoners, mainly American women and children, held there since May 1, 1942.

A sharp fight, in which all the Japanese guards were killed, preceded the deliverance of the Santo Tomas internees.

First Cavalry units also seized Malacanang palace, former government headquarters of the Philippine Commonwealth, finding no Japanese officials, while Yanks of the 37th Division entered the cap-

The motorized First Cavalry, fighting in memory of their former commander, Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, who was captured by the invading Japanese in early 1942, reached Manila first in an almost miraculous dash of some 144 miles in a little more than 60 hours, racing down a highway which skirts the central Luzon plain on the east.

Gen. MacArthur, returning triumphantly to the prime goal of his three-year Pacific campaign—was prevented by a dynamited bridge from entering the city with one of the first spearheads. He turned back to find another route.

Newest threat to the Jap-held portion of Manila was the 11th

Airborne's neat parachute landing on Tagaytay ridge, southwest of the capital, just ahead of the Yanks who invaded the Batangas province beach last Wednesday.

Highly-trained elements of the 511th Paratroop Regiment spectacularly floated to earth 32 air miles from Manila in an operation which caught the enemy completely by surprise. Soon they were only 18 miles from Manila.

Coalition Seeks Defeat of Wallace for Commerce Post

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Prospects of Henry A. Wallace becoming Secretary even of a bottled Commerce Dept. were clouded today by a developing coalition of opponents in the House.

by an intricate maneuver, a combination of Republicans and a group of southern Democrats—each often dominates legislation in the House—threatened to scuttle the George bill. This would be a direct Senate vote on nomination of Wallace as head of commerce, including supervision of the RFC and other loaning agencies.

This, some coalition leaders believed, would result in outright rejection of the former Vice-President for the Commerce post.

However, Sen. George, author of the Senate-approved bill divorcing the loan agencies from the Commerce Dept., expressed hope that the measure would become law without amendments, saying today: "I don't think it is necessary to go any further than we have gone."

Friends of Wallace joined in support of the George bill when it became evident he could not be confirmed in the Senate so long as the loan agencies remained a part of the Commerce Dept.

Now, with the bill awaiting House action, Wallace foes are seeking to write into the legislation a cancellation of President Roosevelt's war powers to reshuffle federal agencies, so that no new agencies could be brought under the commerce secretary, also to take the commerce secretary off the board of the export-import bank.

her mother's folks in Vermont and her mother is working as a nurse in Boston.
 Lt. Cassiani, who observed her 28th birthday Jan. 26, trained at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital and was chief operating room nurse at Boston Dispensary before entering service in 1940.

Rose said she had received definite word from Americans who were repatriated more than a year ago that Helen was at Santo Tomas.

Other American nurses from this area believed to be at the same prison camp are Lt. Rita Palmer, 25, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Palmer of Beach rd., Hampton, N. H.; Lt. Letha McHale of Chester, N. H., niece of Mrs. A. H. Robinson of Harvard ave., Dorchester; Lt. Anne Wurts of Leominster and Lt. Alice Zwicker of Brownsville, Me.

Mrs. Palmer revealed she received a postcard from her daughter last month, first direct word she had from her since the fall of Corregidor. A graduate of Deaconess Hospital, Lt. Palmer enlisted in 1941, trained at Camp Edwards, and went to the Philippines in September of that year. She was at Clark Field when the Japs first attacked.

On April 7, 1942, the War Dept. reported that the Hampton nurse was slightly wounded by shrapnel on Bataan. Later, she and several other nurses attempted to escape by plane, but they were forced down by engine trouble and taken captive by the enemy.

Lt. McHale, native of Stoughton, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Martin McHale, was head of the New Hampshire Memorial Hospital in 1941 when she resigned to become an Army nurse. She served on Bataan and Corregidor. Her aunt, Mrs. Nellie S. Robinson of Bowdoin ave., Dorchester, heard about the Santo Tomas liberations over the radio last night and remained awake until nearly dawn listening hopefully for some detail about her niece.

Mrs. Robinson said Lt. McHale was a graduate of Hale Hospital, Haverhill, and later joined the nursing staff of Gale Hospital there. She received her first training as an Army nurse at Camp Edwards and was sent to Bataan only a few months before the Japs won the Philippines.

Only one letter from her has been received by Mrs. Robinson since she was made prisoner. In it she was able to say only that she was "well, working and studying."

New Bedford friends expressed hope today that the list of liberated prisoners would include the name of Frank L. Neild, former textile mill president.

Neild arrived in Manila shortly before the outbreak of war to head a large cotton plant there for the Filipino government. He is a former president of the National Ass'n of Cotton Manufacturers. Relatives received word in September, 1942, that he was safe and well at the Santo Tomas camp.

Although officials of the New England Province of the Society of Jesus said they did not know definitely if any of their order were interned at the prison reported liberated, they said they were hoping for word about 10 American Jesuits from New England who were in Manila at the outbreak of war.

Five Jesuits at the Ateneo de Manila University, situated about eight blocks from the walled city itself, when hostilities began were:

Rev. Bernard F. Doucette, S. J., of Melrose; Rev. Henry L. Irwin, S. J., of Bridgeport, Ct.; Rev. Thomas A. Shanahan, S. J., of Boston; Rev. Russell M. Sullivan, S. J., of Roxbury, and Brother John J. Duffy, S. J., of Boston.

Rev. John B. Abrams, S. J., of Worcester was at the Jesuit Church of St. Ignatius in Manila, and Rev. James P. Moran, S. J., of Marlboro, was at San Jose Seminary, also within the city.

Stationed at the Jesuit Seminary at Novaliches, near central Manila, were Very Rev. Vincent I. Kennally, S. J., of Dorchester; Rev. Henry A. Coffey, S. J., of Providence, R. I., and Rev. Walter F. Hyland, S. J., of East Boston.

Firemen Call Aid In Own Blaze

DETROIT, Feb. 5 (AP)—Firemen of the 12th st. station were a bit abashed when a brisk blaze broke out in the attic of their two-story building.

They followed the usual rules of fire-fighting and used equipment from their ladder and engine, but found the blaze was spreading. Attempts to summon help by telephone failed as the wires had been burned out, and one man was delegated to run to a nearby house to telephone for some of their comrades.

Two more engine companies responded and the fire was extinguished quickly.

Police, Firemen Solve Lockout for WAVES

Two fair WAVES from Pennsylvania were today extolling the chivalry of Boston firemen who aided them in a dilemma which befalls many absent-minded citizens from time to time.

Ensigns Marjorie Magargel of Tyrone and Betty Parr of Hershey arrived outside their apartment building in the South End only to discover they had left the door key inside and were locked out. They explained the situation to a policeman, who notified the fire dept. Soon a ladder truck rolled up and a fireman mounted the ladder, opened a window of their third floor apartment and came down inside to open the front door.

Five Artillerymen Win Bronze Star

Award of the Bronze Star Medal to five New England field artillerymen was announced today by the War Dept.

Cpl. John W. Shannon, 623 Union st., West Springfield; T-5 Robert Mullen, Needham Heights; PFC Arthur N. Russo, 75 Davis st., Revere; T-5 Raymond J. Turmelie, 99 Maple st., Rochester, N. H.; and Pvt. Robert J. Murray, 17 Alma st., Providence.

Who's Surprised?

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (INS)—The New York office of the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics totaled up figures resulting from a survey in New York city today and announced that New York women spent an average of $14.4 on clothing last year while their menfolk spent only $75.3 for personal adornment.

The figures also showed that the average New York family spent $19 a week for food.

Lois DeFee on 9th Honeymoon

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Feb. 9 (AP)—Lois De Fee, six-foot four-inch burlesque queen and former night club bouncer, who once wed a midget on a bet, was married for the ninth time Jan. 14 at Annapolis, Md. It became known here today.

The bridegroom is six-foot five-inch Lt. Hugh M. Roper, 43-year-old veteran of 30 air missions in China. The newlyweds are honeymooning here.

Miss De Fee, who gave her age as 28, was married to three-foot 11-inch Billy Curtis in 1938. The marriage lasted one day.

Buddies' Club Party Marks USO Birthday

A birthday party at the Buddies' Club on the Common, with a cake large enough to serve 1500 persons, will wind up the fourth anniversary celebration of the USO tonight.

Selection of the Typical Serviceman and the Typical USO Junior Hostess will climax the affair. The contest winners will be king and queen for a day, the plans including a beauty treatment, a reception at the Buddies' Club, a tour of historic Concord and Lexington, lunch at the Wright Tavern and dinner at the Ritz Carlton. Then the two will be theater guests of Tallulah Bankhead.

Boy Shooting Victim Improving

Edmund Scarfo, 15, of Princeton st., East Boston, was reported improving today at City Hospital, where doctors removed a bullet after he had been accidentally shot in the chest when a revolver in the hands of a chum was discharged.

Scarfo and his chum, Rocco DiNicola, Jr., 15, of Lexington st., East Boston, were in the kitchen of the latter's home, examining a gun owned by DiNicola's father, when the accident occurred.

How Soldier Reacts To Death Told by GI

By HAL BOYLE

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN BELGIUM, Jan. 29 (delayed) (AP)—Every soldier worries about how he will react personally to his first combat—to the sight of death on the battlefield.

How it affected one young soldier is told in a recent letter written by Johnny Iless, former assistant program producer at radio station WGN, Chicago. He is motor officer for the 743rd Tank Battalion.

His letter said:

"I used to wonder before I came to a combat outfit how I would react to the dead ones. I don't know quite why it is, but I find I don't react in any special way.

"My driver will say to me when we are riding around the front line area, 'There's a couple more.

And I will look and there will be a couple of men beside the road, lying very still, their skin paper-white and now, in the winter, frozen stiff and brittle looking.

"Once in awhile I think someone will be weeping for them. I wonder if the man had a wife and what she's doing at this minute when her husband now is suddenly dead and lying so still and so grotesquely on the snow alongside a road in Belgium. But you don't often think about it and you go right on about your business.

"It isn't much different when you hear about someone in the outfit who has been killed, except that there is more of a shock because it's a little closer. Someone will mention a death and you will remember that he was a little square guy with a deep voice and big hands who always wore dirty green dungarees and who helped you push your jeep out of a rut one day near Alsford, and you will say 'Oh, gee' and want to know how it happened.

"And very, very shortly afterward you forget about it because there have been too many of them, and there will be more and closer ones than that, you know.

"Scorow begins for sure when a friend goes, but that's no different than when a friend dies in the days of peace. Here it happens more often, more suddenly, more violently, and you say 'damn the war!' And remember how you looked with your friend and told him not to be a damn hero and to watch out what he doing before he went into this last action where he was hit.

"You remember he was a gentle young guy, and smart, and that he laughed a lot, that he was just, and curious and that you once had borrowed his cigaret lighter and never returned it—which was a standing joke between you. Then, too, you know that there's another good one gone and that there are so few of them, so pitifully few.

"That hurts as much as any of it."

U. S. Troops Block Jap Burma Retreat

CALCUTTA, Feb. 5 (AP)—American troops of the Mars Task Force, blocking a Japanese retreat down the Lashio-Laiwing road in Burma, have killed 250 of the enemy and captured a hill west of the road and 79 miles north of Lashio, it was announced today.

More than 900 Japanese were killed in recent fighting at Kangaw, 30 miles east of Akyah.

In the Armed Forces

From a Ninth AAF fighter-bomber base in France comes the announcement that 2 Lt. John H. Wallace, Jr., of Butler st., Dorchester, Thundersbolt fighter pilot, has been awarded the Air Medal for heroism during five combat missions, in which he dive-bombed and strafed enemy positions and installations in the van of the First and Third U. S. Armies. He is a graduate of Boston College High School and was a student at Boston College when he enlisted in Jan., 1942.

Serving with the AAF in Italy is Sgt. Robert J. Dumas, son of Mrs. Hilda F. Dumas of Shawheen rd., Patchurst. His unit is a part of the aural service squadron of the 12th Service Command in the Mediterranean theater. Seeing action first in North Africa, Sgt. Dumas and his unit later served in Sardinia and Corsica before moving into Italy. Prior to entering the service, he was a student at the Howe High School in Ballerica. His brother, PFC Fred A., was recently honorably discharged from the Marine Corps.

Vivisection Bill Hearings Near

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Public hearings on a pending bill to prohibit the practice of vivisection in the District of Columbia appear probable in the near future.

Several members of the House District of Columbia committee have indicated they favor the pending bill and desire full and open hearings, Rep. Lemke (R.) of North Dakota, author of the measure, announced.

Lemke said he planned to confer with Rep. McGehee (D.) of Mississippi, chairman of the subcommittee to which the bill has been referred, to request a definite date.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5 (AP)—Robert Ingram, electrician's mate 2c, was married yesterday in the church where, three years ago, a funeral mass was said for him.

When the Navy reported Ingram missing in action, Fr. Joseph F. Alker conducted a requiem for him Dec. 23, 1941, but Ingram had survived the Japanese raid on Pearl Harbor.

The same priest performed the Sacrament of Matrimony at St. Ignatius Church.

WOMEN '40's Are You Embarrassed By HOT FLASHES?

If you, like so many women, between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, nervous tension, irritability, are a bit blue at times—all due to the functional middle age period peculiar to women—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms.

For almost a century thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported remarkable benefits. Many wise women take Pinkham's Compound regularly to help build up resistance against such annoying distress.

Lydia Pinkham's Compound helps nature. It also has what Doctors call a stomachic tonic effect. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

MANILA—VICTORY AND CHALLENGE

THE TRIUMPHANT ENTRY of General Douglas MacArthur's dauntless men into Manila is an important milestone in the Pacific War and a hopeful page in American history.

The road to the Philippine capital was long, hard and discouraging—particularly so when urgently needed troops and materials went to the other side of the world for another conflict and for allies unable to produce their own weapons in sufficient quantities.

But the road was SURE, as General MacArthur confidently said it would be.

Given the reinforcements for which he had beseeched the global strategists in Washington, General MacArthur landed victoriously on Leyte Island on October 20, 1944—less than four months ago.

Pushing ahead relentlessly, and with characteristic resourcefulness, he successfully invaded Marinduque Island on January 6 of this year, and in the ensuing three weeks established and held three strong positions on Luzon.

The drive to Manila was the logical next step.

BUT IT was an arduous and perilous step, requiring all the planning and deliberation which General MacArthur gave it.

Always, as the communiques show, MacArthur's men were his chief concern. He refused to jeopardize them needlessly or to waste their lives in reckless gambles.

Consequently his moves were like those of a chess expert. To the extent within his power he removed the element of chance and then launched his attacks.

For that reason, probably more than for any other, Old Glory proudly waves once more in Manila, and thousands of men who have fought with General MacArthur throughout the Pacific campaign are alive to hail the vindicated emblem.

General MacArthur's concern for lives was also demonstrated when he made Japanese concentration camps and prisons his first goals.

Thus he quickly liberated vast numbers of Anglo-American internees, including the valiant men of Bataan, and prevented their slaughter by the vengeful enemy.

OF COURSE the fall of Manila will not mean the end of the Pacific War, nor even the beginning of the end.

The surrender of Tokyo and the collapse of the still formidable Japanese military machine are still far in the unpredictable future.

General MacArthur has kept his promise to return and the humiliating loss of American territory to a treacherous invader has been at least partially overcome.

But in the weeks, months and perhaps years ahead we must meet and defeat the Japs at sea, on land and in the air until the last vestiges of their power and menace are removed.

General MacArthur and his men have proved that the American spirit, unbroken and unimpaired, is equal to the task.

Our weapons, forged by the greatest craftsmen the world has ever known, are superior, and Japan, having lost more than 5300 planes in contrast to America's 200 in the Battle of the Philippines, undoubtedly knows that, too.

We must therefore hail Manila as a victory, but not as the victory.

That will come later—and we pray soon—when our fighting sons in khaki, green and blue parade in triumph through the streets of Tokyo or wherever else the Japanese have their government.

Meanwhile, Manila will be our rallying cry to more work in field and factory, more carefully planned invasions and more victories.

THE BOROUGHS of Manhattan is the easiest place in the country for a taxicab driver to find his way about. The hardest place is Brooklyn. Any Brooklyn policeman will tell you he encounters every night about 10 taxicab drivers who are lost. Most of these are from Manhattan. In London, the examination to get a cab driver's license is a stiff one. The applicant must prove he is familiar with the location of every street in the city and knows the shortest distance between all streets.

HER BUDGET: A career girl of Manhattan says she is paid $160 a month and it is not nearly enough to live on. She outlines her monthly expenses as follows: rent, $30; food, $60; clothes, $25; cleaning, $10; insurance, $25; beauty parlor and cosmetics, $5. This totals $152.50. And says the young woman: "I am $12 shy of what is actually necessary for me and still have no money for medical care, savings, vacations, pocket money, club dues, hobbies, etc." (Note: If a single girl has a tough time supporting herself on $10 a week what a time a wife whose husband only makes $40 a week must have. Especially if she has two or three children.)

SHAVING HINT: "How crude of Mike Jacobs to use a flatiron to get the most out of a tube of shaving cream," writes a Californian. "And how stupid of that theatrical man to use a rolling pin for the same purpose. The thing to do is slit the tube along one creased edge and open it. In that way you will get everything that is in the tube without the effort required to run a flatiron or rolling pin over it."

HER PROBLEM: "I weigh 99 pounds. I offered to contribute a pint of blood to the Red Cross but they told me I must weigh 100 pounds. Isn't that ridiculous?" So writes a young woman of Detroit. Maybe it is ridiculous but why argue? Why not just consume a few milkshakes, some apple pie à la mode and several chocolate sundaes? It is easy to gain a pond. You can be as lovely as Lauren Bacall if you try.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Ever hear of anybody pasting all the columns of a columnist in a scrap book? A—

Yes, indeed, Joan Crawford, the Hollywoodian, pasted all O. O. McIntyre's columns in a scrap book. Last time I mentioned this Jeanette MacDonald told me not to feel badly, that she would paste all my columns in a scrapbook. So she saved a lot of columns in an envelope and then bought a scrapbook. But when ready to start pasting she couldn't find the envelope. A little later she found the envelope and then learned her secretary had taken the scrapbook to the studio to paste press clippings in. Jeanette bought another scrapbook but when she started to paste it seems the paste was no good. The next day she had to go on a concert tour. But she wrote me from Boston saying: "Don't worry. Everything's going to be all right. As soon as I get back home I am going to start on the scrapbook if I can find the envelope with the clippings in it, and get some good paste. That is, of course, if I can find the scrapbook." Do you think Jeanette is kidding me? You know how those red-haired girls are.

SAYS HE: "You seem to be having difficulty in being able to determine the age of a woman," writes a New Yorker. "It is therefore my pleasure to submit to you my formula, one of long standing, which I have found infallible and accurate. For example: should a woman upon inquiry say she is 30 years old. You then contact a close feminine friend of this woman. With tact and discretion you persuade this woman to disclose the age of her friend. Suppose she says the age is 34. Then you add 30, the age the woman you are interested in claimed to be, to 34, the age her dearest friend says she is. Divide this by two. It will give you 34 which is the woman's real age. I hope I make myself clear."

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Observed Eleanor Early: "There is no quality so profitable to a girl as amiability. Happy women can usually marry anyone they choose to. Happiness sticks out all over a girl and draws men like honey draws bees." This is from our Men & Mules File No. 986D.

"Well, well! So YOU'RE that cute little WAC that's been stealing all our boy friends away!"

PRIEST BARES JAP PRISON HORROR

This is the exclusive, first-person story of three years of terror in a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines as told by Maj. John J. Dugan, S. J., of South Boston, heroic priest and Army chaplain, freed in the Ranger raid on Jan. 30. Maj. Dugan, Boston College High School graduate and once chaplain at City Hospital, is the brother of William F. Dugan of Hunkley rd., Milton, and of Mrs. Gertrude Dugan Cronin of Elmer ave., Saugus. He was taken prisoner in the fall of Bataan.

By MAJ. JOHN J. DUGAN

As told to Leo Van Atta, International News Service Correspondent

(Copyright, 1945, by the Boston Record-American)

A REST CAMP ON LUZON, Feb. 4—I can tell the whole story of my comrades during these past three terrible years in a few simple words. Those words are these—they proved themselves real Americans; Americans with honesty, courage, Godliness and fine common sense; Americans who never faltered and who may have feared, but were too proud to admit it.

Many of them found their God in death; others found their God with me in the simple service we were allowed to hold in our rude little prison chapel.

Yes, we lived a barbaric, cruel and often bestial existence. But we lived a life which bound each unto the other and we shared the pain and suffering of imprisonment under our ruthless Japanese captors with the same community feeling with which we now sharing our freedom under the Army officers and men who are almost too kind to be real.

Maj. John J. Dugan

I WAS ONE of those few fortunate men who missed the death march—I was ill, too ill to walk, and even the Japanese apparently feared to infringe greatly on the church.

But everywhere around me I saw what they did to our men. First, they confiscated everything we had — our few precious remaining valuables and keepsakes, what little food we had saved aside, and yes, even our medicines.

Not then, nor weeks later, nor months later, did they ever give us that medicine we needed so badly for our wounded and our dying.

They did everything they could to starve us, but they forgot one thing—the American spirit.

OUR DEATH TOLL at first was staggering. In the early days at Camp Cabanatuan, second only to the terrible scenes at Camp O'Donnell for savage administration, our soldiers were dying at the rate of 50 a day.

Then in late November of 1942, we were given our first Red Cross parcels—parcels with food, medicine, cigarettes and even some reading matter which the enemy troops let pass.

Nothing was received in all the time we were imprisoned that did so much to lift our morale, to increase our confidence and to cut our death rate. That medicine meant the difference between life and death for many scores of our men.

All the officers, chaplains and doctors had to do manual labor in the fields every day, working from dawn to dusk.

Our jobs ranged from cleaning latrines to farming and wood chopping. And those who failed to meet the schedule the Japanese had set were beaten and sometimes executed.

I've seen more than one American beaten to death because he lacked both the strength and the will to keep up the back-breaking physical labor our captors demanded.

CERTAIN memorable highlights stand out in those three years we were in captivity, but not many. It's the brighter things we like to remember.

For example, the wonderful kindness of all the Filipinos who willingly sacrificed their lives and freedom to bring gifts of food or medicine.

I can give the time right down to the minute when our captors knew that our cause was not a lost one. It was 10:03 a. m. on Sept. 21 of last year. We were working in the fields when that hope flew past high above us—in the form of at least 150 carrier-based planes.

I like to recall Christmas Eve of 1942, also—an evening which will live in my mind as one of the great experiences of all my imprisonment.

We secured permission from the prison authorities to hold Christmas services in the fields near Cabanatuan. All the churches and all denominations were represented in the picturesque setting and 6000 American soldiers came to that single service of belief. I am sure God looked down on us that night, and today I'm equally sure that He answered our prayers.

OF COURSE, Tuesday night, Jan. 30, was our night of redemption and there'll never be another quite like it for any of us. Those 120 Rangers did an absolutely herculean task with truly beautiful teamwork.

What, perhaps, made it most realistic to me was that two friends — Lt. John Murphy of Springfield, Mass., and Lt. William J. O'Connell of Boston—were among the first to recognize me and tell me it was not a dream but reality.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 5—Marlene Dietrich's spout in print that she was through with Hollywood is followed by a letter to one of her friends here saying she had bought the film rights to Emile Zola's novel, "Germinal."

So if Jean Gabin remains in Paris, you may expect Marlene to keep her word and remain away from Hollywood. In fact, she confides to her friends she wants to produce "Germinal" in Paris with Gabin her co-star.

Marlene Dietrich

Before Zola died, he said he considered "Germinal" his greatest book. It's sort of a French "How Green Was My Valley," dealing with the social problem of coal miners—just the sort of thing Gabin likes to do.

THERE'S HOT TALK that Warners have closed a deal to buy James Cain's "Serenade" (which is plenty hot, too) for none other than Joan Crawford. This should end all talk that Joan's appearance on the Warner lot was just a one-picture fling in "Mildred Pierce." Mike Curtiz, himself, is leading the raves about Joan and he's saying she'll shine brighter than ever when the movie is released. Mike should know. He's the director. Every time I hear a movie company has bought one of Cain's stories

I start wondering how they will get it past the Hays office. "Serenade" is no exception, and will take plenty of soapuds on the script.

CUTE LITTLE VERA-ELLEN, the actress Sam Goldwyn brought from the New York stage, will be one of the three girls in "Three Little Girls in Blue." Here's a comedy lead, with June Haver, 20th's pretty blonde, as the straight lead, and Carmen Miranda doing her particular type of entertainment. It's a musical, as you can well see, and in this type of picture there's always room for any talented performer. Barrosa, famous South American composer, signed by Darryl Zanuck, is writing the music.

DON'T BE too surprised if Republic snags "Dear Ruth." Herb Yates is a man who spends his money when he makes up his mind, and he's given Frank Borzage carte blanche to buy anything he wants. Frank has set his heart on the Norman Krasna play and so he's put in a spirited bid for the film rights.

THE HAROLD LLOYDS' eldest daughter, Gloria, was a sensation, to put it mildly, when she was in New York with her parents a few weeks ago. Brock Pemberton took one look at her and said: "I'd like to put her on the stage." That's all the encouragement Gloria needed. She's been studying dramatics a long time, but Harold and Mildred wanted to think it over, so Gloria is back home with them. But you needn't be surprised if she goes on the stage because she wants to be an actress.

JUDY GARLAND not only got a letter from Mickey Rooney from Paris, but he also sent along a bottle of French perfume. According to the note Pvt. Rooney wrote on a big picture postcard showing one of the famous cathedrals, he is in a very cheerful frame of mind. Maybe he's heard about, or read some of those glowing reviews on "National Velvet." Anyway, Mickey wrote: "Things are going along so fast over here, Judy, this nickname for Judy that I hope we can co-star soon in a little opus called 'Babes in Berlin.'" The way those Roosians are going, that could be any day now.

JOHNNY WEISSMULLER will be a glutton for punishment if he ever takes his 4-year-old Johnny, Jr., to see another of his pictures. "Tarzan and the Amazon" was the first movie Johnny, Jr., had ever attended. "Well, how did you like it?" asked the senior Weissmuller. "The monkey was wonderful," replied Junior.

london American, Feb. 5-21

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Richard A. Carrington, Jr., publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner, is a happy grandfather. Lt. Richard T. Carrington welcomed a baby son and, of course, he will be named Richard, too, after his grandfather. There's a report, unconfirmed, from Paris, that the lovely face of Danielle Darrieux has been mutilated. It didn't say whether in an automobile accident, or by the Germans or French. Yvonne De Carlo is wearing a ring, put on the proper finger by Hank Daniels. He's in "Meet Me in St. Louis" and Yvonne makes her debut in the starring role of "Salome, Where She Danced."

Katharine Grayson's sister, Florence Raeburn, is expecting a baby. She was in "Seven Sisters," and is now married to Lt. David Millet; Martha O'Driscoll's Ma was really in a mess until the Emergency Ration Board came to the rescue. Martha went overseas and took all the family gas and food coupons with her. You may expect Artie Shaw and Ava Gardner to admit an engagement any day; one of the boys in the South Pacific writes they only had one copy of "Forever Amber" and it's worn out from too much reading. Ann Sheridan gets back here Feb. 10 for "The Man Who Died Twice"; there's a rumor Lawrence Tibbett will be named managing director of the Metropolitan Opera Company; Mrs. Peter Lorre is in Las Vegas for a divorce. Also there for the same reason is Karen Verne, who will be the second Mrs. Lorre.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—Jane Froman, the Clipper crash heroine, is ailing again...

John Hertz, Jr., ex-husband of Myrna Loy, is among those keeping Gloria Yandorbi Di Cicco from being too lonely... All editors and columnists are forbidden to use her name... A group in Washington is pressing the enactment of a law which would "freeze" all divorce suits for one year after the end of the war. Germany already has such a law, and similar idea is finding favor in England.

THE FRED (HARPER'S BAZAAR) DRAKES are lullabying a 7-lb. 1-oz. boy at Woman's Hospital... Grant Richards of "Winged Victory" and Mollie Netherer, Chicago department store heiress, are snuffing orange blossoms... WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Visitors are positively forbidden to the Senators while the Senate is in session.

This may seem like an arbitrary rule but there is sound reason behind it. If the Senators were busy scrambling for peanuts and pieces of fish they would never be able to concentrate on matters of state, such as whether Henry Wallace.

The no-eating rule goes even further, however. It extends to visitors in the Senate galleries. Sightseers are not even permitted to have picnic bonfires—no matter how they feel about frankfurters.

This anti-nosebag regulation is usually enforced with great vigor. Many a heckler who has sat up there sucking a hunk of lemon, thereby causing some senatorial orator to drool, has been forcibly evicted.

The other day, however, the Capitol cops were kept so busy the situation got out of control. This was the day the Senate met and passed the George Bill divorcing the government loan agencies from the Department of Commerce—a move to forestall Henry Wallace from having the handling of dough.

A crowd eager to opening day of Congress stormed the Capitol. For some reason the question of whether Henry will be allowed to succeed Jesse Jones —and to what extent—has aroused considerable local interest.

This may be because we are temporarily short on other attractions. The cherry blossoms will not be out for another 10 weeks.

ANYWAY, in the hustle, bustle and push, a group of five elderly ladies got past the granddames with box lunches. They chatted animatedly until the proceedings opened—and then decided it was time to feed.

One obese gentleman reached into a bag and produced a handful of paper napkins. The ladies spread these on their laps and began to pig on the comestibles, merrily food.

Our Mrs. Janet Green, who had originally intended covering the proceedings on the Senate floor, became so engrossed with the gormandizing she let the other business side and covered the gorming, gulp by gulp.

"Many thanks! the second thing, which I should judge was the angel cake," reported Mrs. Green, in her best fluid style, "I began to notice crumbs swirling down from the gallery. I could not be too sure about this, because my eyes are not what they used to be, but I am almost certain some of these crumbs got into the hair of a couple of Senators."

"Ah, yes, I saw them scratch

By George Dixon

their heads on if bothered by foreign matter."

Mrs. Green added that the ladies finished their repast without interruption and then departed, leaving the picnic litter behind them.

I MADE the unpardonable mistake of asking Mrs. Green how the Senate had finally voted on the George Bill.

"You can get all that from the late papers," she said, "Please do not bother me with side issues!"

ALBEN BARKLEY, the Senate majority leader, who has been ill for some time, returned to the Senate floor the other day wearing a black patch over one eye. He was hailed by Sen. Clyde Reed, of Kansas, with:

"Did you get that shiner at the caucus on the Wallace-Jones thing this morning?" "No," retorted Senator Barkley. "My doctor told me to be sure to keep the wind out of my eye—and I thought I'd better wear it on the floor of the Senate!"

YOU MAY have heard of the log-rolling that goes on here; of how folks who were socially ignored when they were more or less obscure are suddenly deluged with attention when they suddenly attain prominence.

I have no personal knowledge of this, because most people make careers of ignoring me socially, but I have just read a most intriguing piece by one of the town's society editors anent Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, owner of the Hopi Indians—I mean Hope Diamond.

It reads as follows:

"There seems to be an incorrect notion bruited abroad that Mrs. McLean's dinner on Saturday night, February 17, for Vice-President and Mrs. Harry Truman will mark the initial appearance of the guest of honor, his wife, and daughter at Friendship (Mrs. McLean's Little Lagoon).

"On the contrary, the Trumans are longtime friends of Mrs. McLean, and she is entertaining for them on that basis, as she has many times in the past."

You mean she ain't inviting no strangers?

I would like to ask Vice-President Truman just one question:

Is this trip necessary?

Dewey at Manila

By GEORGE BRADY

IF THE HEROES of yesterday are privileged to know the heroes of today, we can be sure that the spirit of Adm. George Dewey accompanies Gen. Douglas MacArthur into liberated Manila.

Forty-seven years ago—on May 1, 1898—Admiral Dewey, then a commodore in the United States Navy, brought Manila and the Philippines under the protection of the Stars and Stripes.

It was the first notable American victory in the Spanish-American War, a conflict that parallels the present Pacific campaign in many important respects.

America was fighting to free enslaved peoples. America was standing alone, receiving assistance from no other nation, save from Britain, and from her only token sympathy.

Congress formally declared war against Spain on April 25 of that fateful year after President McKinley, angered by the destruction of the battleship Maine in Cuban waters and the continued outrages of the Spanish, had said:

"In the name of humanity, in the name of civilization, in behalf of endangered American interests, the war in Cuba must stop."

Immediately Commodore Dewey, who was commanding a fleet in Eastern waters, was ordered to proceed to Manila Bay, there to attack the Spanish fleet.

IT WAS a hazardous undertaking. Manila Bay is one of the world's finest harbors. Two islands, rising 500 feet from the water, stand like sentries at its mouth. Cannon, covering them like mail, made them formidable indeed.

But moving under cover of night, as did MacArthur in his approach to Manila, Commodore Dewey swept past the islands and, at dawn, entered the harbor to grapple with the Spanish fleet.

He took it by surprise as it lay under the guns of Cavite, a town 17 miles from Manila. There followed one of the most remarkable naval battles in history.

The Spanish fleet, commanded by Admiral Montono, consisted of ten powerful vessels, while Dewey had nine. Shore batteries filling the skies with fire and steel, went into action.

All morning the fighting went on, with ever-mounting intensity. Five times the American fleet swung past the enemy, pouring in its deadly broadsides.

The Spanish fought furiously, but (to no avail) by one o'clock, in the afternoon the enemy's fleet was totally destroyed and the water strewn with dead and dying Spaniards.

Not an American had been killed, nor an American vessel disabled.

The road to Manila was cleared.

A FEW WEEKS later the Stars and Stripes waved over the Philippine capital after a combined attack by the Navy under Commodore Dewey and a land force sent from the United States under the command of General Merritt.

More than 13,000 Spanish soldiers surrendered in the Manila garrisons, and the victorious Americans quickly spread out over the entire archipelago, wresting it forever from Spain's domination and misrule.

Like MacArthur, Dewey was the victim of woeful unpreparedness. His inadequate fleet could expect little support from the Army at the beginning of the war, for the Army numbered only 23,000 men due to Congressional neglect and public apathy.

But the victory at Manila, achieved seemingly by miracle, inspired and invigorated the somnolent country and by the end of August 216,000 men had volunteered in response to the President's call for 75,000.

Monday Feb. 5, 1945

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—Eating things for others makes you happy. Your sign, Aquarius, is famed for its charitable. But herein you must remember not to neglect the little attentions your loved ones crave daily. Be not so engrossed in outside problems you forget the niceties that make home truly happy. Develop your gift for writing, music. Practice consistency. Have recourse to prayer and trust in God's goodness and the ability He has given you in abundance.

Their smokes are packed in petroleum!

Fresh cigarettes are mighty important to the GI's who fight in heat, rain, flood and mud. And they're wanted on the home front, too.

Materials once used for cigarette packaging were drafted for war. But they're not missed now by smokers whose favorite brands come in paper packages protected with Atlantic Refining Company's Amprol 8.

Paper laminated with 'Amprol 8' has proved to be an excellent inner wrap for cigarettes. It keeps freshness in and climate out. It is tough and durable. It resists breaking, tearing, splitting.

Development of Amprol 8 from petroleum by Atlantic's Research Division is a neat feat of wartime science. And protecting soldiers' smokes is only one of its varied assignments.

Its BIG job is strengthening and waterproofing the heavy wrapping paper that guards machinery and war products against corrosion. It is also used as a lubricant for wire rope. New demands are producing other new uses.

The same research that gave you metal-saving Amprol 8 is working for you daily. New products made from crude petroleum, new improvements in old processes are continuously evolved at Atlantic.

This is research to help win the war—and to bring you finer petroleum products for peacetime use.

Glamor Trio to Help You

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

ALL THOSE pretty jars and bottles . . . beautifully packaged and attractively displayed on the cosmetic counters are inviting, aren't they? But do you know what to do with them? Or are you too often at a loss as to what to buy . . . why you should buy any at all . . . and how to derive the fullest benefit of the preparations after they reach your home?

It's surprising that after the millions of words written by a beauty editor on the effectiveness of cosmetics . . . and how they can be utilized to help you face each new day a bit lovelier than you were the day before . . . that there are still innumerable women who do not understand cosmetics as applied to their individual skin problems.

While cosmetic clinics are not an innovation . . . a noted beauty house has taken up the educational cudgels on behalf of the teen-ager, her older sister and mother . . . and has sent three specially trained cosmeticians to a Boston store . . . to help confused women straighten themselves out on the question of what to use on their skin and why. This city is their first stop-over in their nation-wide tour of 25 key American cities.

Ann Mulhern is a skin analyst . . . Marie King is a teenage consultant . . . and Eunice Hoffner is a make-up colorist. They'll tell you that we New Englanders are hard-water users . . . and that the soft coil heating of so many homes makes skin cleansing more than just a superficial job . . . as so many women haphazardly subscribe to.

They'll tell you how you can say good-by to tired, flaky skin with a quick-working night milk preparation . . . a blend of 42 per cent fresh pasteurized dairy milk, pure vegetable oils and fine softening ingredients. That you need leave it on your skin for only 30 minutes . . . or overnight . . . but in the final analysis it will help keep your skin dewy-fresh and young looking. And if you use it faithfully . . . every night . . . you'll actually see your skin take on new glory.

It would be well worth your while just to talk to these consultants . . . if you are a youngster or a mother. Let them give you a personalized chart of your facial needs and coloring . . . so that your beauty asset may not be a hidden one.

For the name of this unusual night-milk preparation and where to meet and speak with the consultant trio, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

My Day

NEW YORK, Sunday.—You may have noticed in the papers that Henry Kaiser is heading up the greatest drive for used clothing we have had in this country.

I want to remind everyone that this does not mean that we should give less than we usually have given at home. If we have given wisely in the past, what we gave is still needed.

We should be sure, however, that what is given here is really going to fill needs that are vital. Everything else that we can spare should go to this drive for countries where, without question, the need is greater than anything we know over here.

Beauty

THE CARE OF THE SKIN is as basic as hand-washing . . . yet so many women are content to give haphazard, superficial attention to their face . . . the most precious beauty asset they have. If you'd like to look a little like Lynn Bari, 20th Century filmstress . . . develop some of her facial grace and charm with an unusual night milk . . . and let a trio of specially-trained cosmeticians read your facial needs as a palmist reads your hands.

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

a friend, a revealing letter from Great Britain. I think it gives an insight into their needs which no words of mine could possibly give. The whole letter is most interesting, but I can give only a part of it today.

"In June of 1942, I think it was," it reads, "Ted assisted me in writing you a letter from Mother Hubbard's Cupboard—do you remember it? Well! Today he helps me again to write a similar letter at the end of the fifth full year of war, and in the sixth of its progression.

"I am not any less a Mother Hubbard some two years and a half afterwards, and I am the more a Polly Flinders, because cinders are precious commodities to us here.

"IT IS NO OFFICIAL secret that the weather has been vile these past four months. Rain has been perpetual, and in November we were gifted with 28 days of rain, typically English wet weather.

"To a mother of any family, the weather is in these days an insidious enemy, in that it has to be beaten with all the inferiorities that war brings.

"One fights it with dull-edged tools, like food which fills but does not sustain long enough; clothes which, although the best 'utility,' never knew the quality of even our inferior pre-war materials; and last but not least, with footwear which never was meant to stay damp and wet, and keep children's toes free and snug from snow, chills and frosts."

Flag Colors for Spring

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A wave of flag colors has swept over the fashions that are now readied for spring. The red, white and blue are combined in many a suit, dress, coat or ensemble designed in the best houses.

This color combination is seen particularly in sports and casual clothes, where it is most effective, but you are going to see the red, white and blue waving through evening styles, too.

Miss Dulin has sketched one of the newest sports styles to use the flag colors. Here a smart blazer jacket is made of vivid flag red and blue jersey, and it is worn with a white turtle-necked sweater and a blue skirt. Striped jackets and coats are important in the fashions for both town and sports wear.

Cabbage, Onions Recipes That Give Meals Variety

By MARTHA LEE

CABBAGE AND ONIONS are two good vegetables and popular winter favorites. This week they are considered the two best buys on fresh produce counters. Both new and old cabbage is being displayed and either kind can be served in many appetizing ways.

A favorite salad combination is shredded cabbage, diced red apples and raisins—a good substantial salad to serve with a chowder and hot rolls one of these cold winter nights.

Stuffed cabbage rolls is another dish that is welcomed on cold days.

BEEF AND CABBAGE ROLLS

1 lb. ground beef 1½ tsp. salt
1½ lb. ground pork ½ tsp. pepper
¼ cup grated onion
¼ cup raw rice 3 cups water
1 loose head of cabbage

Combine meat, seasonings, and rice. Shape into loosely formed rolls. Remove core from cabbage and steam until leaves begin to wilt. Separate cabbage leaves and wrap each meat roll with a leaf. Place in a baking pan and cover with water. Cover and cook in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1½ hours or until rice is done.

Onions are indispensable for flavoring and seasoning many dishes—but there are also many excellent ways of using them as a vegetable. Creamed onions combine well with either diced celery, carrots, peas or string beans—and this is a good way to use up small amounts of leftover vegetables.

ONION TIMBALES

2 cups finely sliced onions
2 tbsp. fat 2 eggs, beaten
1½ cups medium white sauce
½ tsp. salt 1-2 tsp. pepper

Cook the sliced onions in the fat until soft but not browned. Stir a little of the hot sauce into the slightly beaten egg, then stir into the remaining sauce; combine all ingredients. Turn into greased custard cups or timbale cups. Set in a pan of hot water up to the level of the timbale mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 30 minutes or until firm. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

STUFFED ONIONS

6 large mild onions ½ tsp. salt
2 tbsp. butter or other fat
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 tsp. minced parsley
2 tsp. lemon juice
½ cup thin cream

Wash and peel onions, and parboil 20 minutes. Drain, remove centers and chop. Combine melted butter, bread crumbs, seasonings, minced parsley, and lemon juice with the chopped onion, and mix well. Fill onions with stuffing. Arrange in greased baking dish, add cream, cover, and bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Chopped leftover meat may replace half the bread crumbs. The cream may be omitted, and small pieces of bacon may be put on top of each onion, in which case, bake uncovered.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

¼ cup butter, margarine, or drippings 1 qt. boiling water
6 medium-sized onions, sliced
5 bouillon cubes
6 slices French bread, toasted
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Melt fat in large saucepan. Add onions and cook 10 minutes. Add boiling water in which bouillon cubes have been dissolved, cover, and cook over low heat until onions are tender. Pour soup in earthenware soup dish, place toast on top, and sprinkle with cheese. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) until cheese melts. Makes 6 servings.

FAT PRODUCTION DOWN

American fat production is far below normal because of smaller fat-producing crops. With the enormous demand for fats for explosives and military supplies, you can see how important are vegetable kitchen fats. Save and turn in every drop.

Fashion

SLEEK NAVY takes a bright flare contrast for slender lines. Animating the conservative trend favored in early spring collections . . . a symmetrical insertion of Chinese red gives distinctive personality to this navy ensemble selected by CBS actress Peggy Stanley from the current showing of Eisenberg originals. The unusual color-contrast treatment in both dress and jacket make for interesting detail in keeping the figure trim and slim. —R. M.

Newsprint to France Spurs Senate Probe

By DAN MARKEL

Boston Evening American, Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—A searching inquiry into newspaper restrictions imposed on American newspapers at the same time large allocations of paper are being made to foreign nations has been launched by the Senate war investigating committee at the request of Sen. Homer Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, it is announced.

Sen. Ferguson's move was made on the heels of dispatches that 22 daily newspapers are now being published in recently-liberated Paris while American newsprint is being sent to France for the purpose, says the State Dept. "of keeping its pressmen in operation."

One of the most active members of the War Investigating Committee, Sen. Ferguson asked that the probe be made because of disturbing reports concerning the newsprint situation that include:

1—Government agencies are threatening to apply a further cut in American newsprint quotas that already have been drastically curtailed.

2—As efforts are made to shrink allotments to publications in this country, sizable tonnages of paper have been scheduled for shipment to foreign interests throughout western Europe's liberated areas.

3—Shipments overseas for our own propaganda use have been augmented, the Office of War Information's allotment for this quarter being given as 4300 tons, almost double the 2298 tons allocated to it in the previous quar-

"Because of information coming to me from the industry, I believe it advisable to ask the committee to renew the investigation it con-

"Now the industry informs me it faces the possibility of further sharp reductions in newsprint allocations for the next quarter, which it feels are wholly unnecessary. The situation requires thorough study.

Contrasting effectively with the rich simplicity of their gowns were the handsome family jewels worn by the bride, her sisters and mother. Carol's long tulle veil was held in place by a circlet of dainty pearl orange blossoms and edged with a deep border of rose point lace. Her only jewelry was an exquisite necklace of matched ivory pearls. Her sisters, Mrs. Renouf Russell, Jr., and Mrs. John H. Gardner, matrons of honor, had twin diamond circlets at the V necklines of their crimson velvet gowns and their mother's rich green crepe dress was enhanced by a sparkling diamond lavalier on a diamond chain and a corsage of golden orchids.

Feminine guests were fashionably dressed in their best bits and tucker in contrast to the trim Red Cross uniforms which are their customary garb nowadays. Belling Byrd, a nurse's aide, was modish in black velvet with matching jewel trimmed beanie on her blonde curls. Mrs. Frederick

Belling Byrd

Bradlee, Jr., most always seen in Red Cross uniform, had a black velvet hat trimmed with a double strand of pearls. Guests also included Gen. Calvin DeWitt, commanding general of the Boston Port of Embarkation, and Mrs. DeWitt. Mr. and Mrs. George S. West, Mrs. and Mrs. John S. Tucker, Bayard Tuckerman with his daughter, Mrs. George Cutler, and her adorable little girl in a rose wool coat and bonnet trimmed with beaver; pretty Mrs. Oglesby Paul, sister of the bridegroom, in a striking French blue and tulle costume, and her mother who chose a handsome gray crepe dress with touches of deep rose.

Others were Miss Sylvia Warren, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Benjamin Gardner, Mrs. Ebon Draper, Mrs. Richard Thordike, Mrs. Ralph Bradley with her daughter, Mrs. John Studer, Mrs. Richard and Sears with daughter Ann.

MOONING today before setting up housekeeping in their new home in Cambridge, are Lt. and Mrs. Frederick William Holt, Jr. (Joyce Louise Hunt) whose candlelight wedding took place Saturday evening in Harvard Congregational Church. Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Guy H. Hunt, Joyce wore a gown of cream faille with a head-dress of pearl orange blossoms and carried a prayer book with gardenia and stephanotis streamers.

Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt performed the ceremony at which the bride's five attendants wore American beauty faille with gardenias in their hair and bouquets of gardenias and stephanotis.

Priscilla Perry, Phyllis Dakin, Marjorie Smith and Mrs. William J. McDonald, Robert McCarron of Auburndale was best man.

Works So Gently Yet So Effectively for Constipation

Physician's Formula Acts on Both Upper and Lower Bowels

Now! You can throw away harsh blasting laxatives for constipation and enjoy this Physician's own formula which works so gently yet so thoroughly—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are purely vegetable—they don't "drain" the gripes or leave you feeling dragged out. Instead, they pep up sluggish bile flow and gently stimulate BOTH upper and lower bowels. They produce more natural-like bowel movements—soft, comfortable—complete satisfaction! So take one or two tiny Olive Tablets tonight to feel "tip-top" tomorrow. Caution: use as directed. 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. All drugstores.

This could be your telephone

BECAUSE communications directs the attack, it stands for both the success and safety of our fighters overseas. Right on the heels of the infantry are the men of the Signal Corps. The farther they advance, the more telephone equipment they need.

The demand for communications equipment for war is so urgent that many thousands of civilians in New England, and throughout the whole country, must wait. How long? We wish we could tell you.

Until victory is assured, the manufacture of wires, switchboards and instruments for civilian use is restricted. Meanwhile we are doing all we can to make existing facilities serve the greatest number.

Our plans are made for expanding facilities when the fighting ends. Catching up with the civilian construction suspended during war years will be a big job and you can understand it's going to take time.

I am dedicatun' this column to those brave Rangers who penetrated 25 miles into Japan to free more than 500 prisoners of war. You can't find that kind of courage and drama in any story book, foke, and didn't yer heart swell wid pride when you first read about it! Those boys in the camp were real heroes, too, coz they were the ones who made it so tough fer the Japrats, early in '42, and they been thru real sacrifices since then... Yess, trooly is goin' on official record right now with an invitation to those New England boys who were rescued, Lt. William J. O'Connell, Sgt. Stanislaus Malor, Petty Officer 1-c J. E. A. Morin, and Com. Carl A. Silverman, to see this town on me! Yessir boys, any or all of you, bring yer wives, yer sweethearts, yer mothers, and everything will be on me. I don't mean less here at me own place, but anyplace in Boston; the shows, the food, the drinks, the whole works is on me, Izzy Ort, and me chest will swell wid pride when I pay the bill!... CHECK ME ON IT

Hunters added more than 2 million pounds of warhead and need to the nation's food supply in 1943. Check me on it.

A brand-new and original floor show opens today at the Checker with: Sharpe and Naples, in a laugh-out-loud routine.

Before wartime restrictions, Americans were eating twice as much food as they did 20 years ago. Remember those happy days?

Most Americans and some of the Checker staff are different about the war. They add to the movement with different about the war. They add to the movement with different about the war.

Foreign industries yield North Carolina $10,000,000 annually. That's much more than the United States has done with just one state of food.

Billy Mitchell, master of ceremonies, invites "you-all" to visit the Checker Cafe for fun, laughs, tearful events and music for your dancing pleasure.

Caesar's Hour Strikes: Hitler's Last Tableau

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE ENCIRCLING SQUEEZE grows tighter! Axis arteries are compressed to the bursting point! Soon Germany must sue for peace. Then what will become of Adolf Hitler, his self-made divinity, his tinsel trappings, vain posturings and false pomp. Let's paint his final tableau!

The scene is Berlin, in one of Hitler's imperial hide-aways. The imitation Caesar sits with apoplectic features, slack with despair. A Schwartz Korps aide enters and salutes with outstretched arm. "Fuehrer," he announces with punctillio form, "the Russians are within the city. Resistance in Berlin has almost ceased."

Hitler is not surprised! A powerful Deussenberg is purring in the courtyard with an armed escort for swift flight to Berchtesgaden and temporary sanctuary in the Bavarian Alps.

Hitler rises laboriously and gazes for the last time at the gaudy fittings of his private sanctum, its great gold eagles, the inlaid wall maps of his Festung Europa, the imperial portrait of himself, the velvet hangings with their gilt embroidered swastikas, the cluster of stained battle standards, the bronze bust with its bulging jaw and imperious glare.

His filmed eyes wander through the lattice to the balcony where, in the lush times of sovereignty, he used to strut, gesture and harangue the fawning German thousands in the square below and hear their massed clamor, "Fear-urrh! Fear-urrh!" But now there are no voices and no crowds—only a few ragged stragglers—passing through the empty streets.

Yonder the arch of Unter Den Linden looms, where he had reviewed his triumphant Elite armies after Warsaw, Vienna, Amsterdam, Brussels, Copenhagen, Paris! And beyond the vast Sportsplatz where he had stood amid theatrical gew-gaws and screamed, "Germans! I give you a thousand years of destiny . . ."

The Army of Witnesses Point!

THE MAN-WHO-ENVIED-GOD will linger, loath to relinquish this last brief moment amid the glittering symbols of his mastery. He will slump beside his carved mahogany desk with its gold encrusted inkwells. Here is the pen with which he had scrawled his arrogant flourish in accepting the surrender of stricken France. There is the Great Seal he affixed to the order to invade Russia. There the imperial keys of Austria and the royal orb of Belgium. His, all HIS!

"Mein Fuehrer!" stammers the frightened Aide. "Time grows short! The car awaits . . ."

The words are meaningless! For Caesar's ears are inclined toward a new and awful sound—the faint, increasing rhythm of marching feet and a rustle of approaching wind. "They come . . ." he murmurs.

"THEY come," repeats Caesar with a fixed and fevered stare. Before his demented vision a shadowy vanguard of tattered men begin to pass, a snakelike river that winds and stretches to the horizon of memory. They are men with pallid skins drawn tight across gaunt skulls. The glow of accusation burns in their hollow sockets. They make no sound except the pulse beat of their marching feet. Their hands are lifted swiftly toward Caesar at shoulder level. But it is not the familiar Fascist salute ordained by Caesar.

They point at Caesar!

The macabre army marches in review, their glowing eye-sockets turned in fierce union, their mirthless lips drawn tightly from glistening teeth, their nerveless hands pointing crow-like claws. And with them march countless women and children in tattered cerements which whip against gaunt limbs. Their ghastly lips frame words like the sigh of the wind, "BEHOLD THE MAN!"

They also point at Caesar!

The Man With the Scythe!

THE FEVERED VISION PASSES! The unending Army of the Dead trails toward the late sunset, and now to Caesar's ears come the uproar of unseen voices, a hideous cacophony that hammers sharply in Caesar's tortured brain, as though beaten on a bronze gong. "World Empire! . . . Destiny . . . Race Supremacy! . . . Nordic Superman! . . . Weltkultur! . . . Avarice! . . . Ambition!"

The clamor also dies and there follows a still, small voice in the thin tones of conscience. It speaks without passion, yet each word falls like a burning brand.

Ambition knows no Peace!

Who gives no mercy shall receive none!

Pride and power are the heritage of the worms!

The Aide taps Caesar on the shoulder and Caesar shudders: "Fuehrer! It is time! The car awaits!" But the figure that stands beside Caesar is no longer that of his bemuddled aide. The figure bears a shining scythe in one hand and an hourglass in the other. "Come," commands the figure imperiously in the tone that Caesar once used. "Come, for I wait on no man!"

Caesar rises irresolutely. He looks down at a slack-featured, grotesque little person in a tailored brown uniform that lies slumped over a desk, a smoking pistol by its head. The juttied jaw is withered repulsively, the venous hands are limp and empty, the half shut eyes are filmed and unfocused. Caesar's earthly package is dead.

"Come Adolf Schickelgruber," commands Fate. "Your eternal destiny awaits!"

Silver Skates Best Ever

By MURRAY KRAMER

Another brilliant Silver Skates Derby has been completed—an ice spectacle that overshadows those nine spectacular frozen classics of the past—a sports episode that will keep some 13,000 delighted spectators and 438 grand competitors talking for days to come.

It was the show of shows.

The most ambitious program ever undertaken in Silver Skates history—the greatest entry field ever—more talent than ever before—yet, the extravaganza was completed in a little over four hours.

Everything clicked with the precision of a MacArthur's planned campaign. There wasn't a hitch or a single delay in this mammoth program of 67 events.

Everything was so perfect that Eleanor O'Meara had to be sensational to retain her billing, as the star of the show.

For weeks, we've insisted that the Toronto girl was the world's greater skater—better than Belita, Sonja Henie, Dona Atwood, and every other headline. Yesterday she proved it. The lovely Canadian girl captivated the crowd completely during her first appearance where she danced the rumba and encoored with Samba. Her closing number, a tribute to Franz Schubert's Ave Maria took the house down—she had to do three encores before the gathering reluctantly let her retire.

And here's a little secret, folks—she suffered a bad leg muscle pull practicing Saturday. Old reliable Win Green backed the injury and treated it all Saturday afternoon and right up to ice time yesterday. Eleanor then skated like the champion she was and not a soul in the audience knew that every jump and each spin was a great effort for this game and charming standout.

MANY OTHER STARS

It would be nice, too, to go into detail about the performances of Jane Weiss, Farris Nourse, Justin Smith, Wiffy Conway, Marion Murphy, Kay Lindstrom, Rosemary Clements, and the barrel jumping LeBels but space prohibits. All we can say is that they were all "swell."

This brings us down to the speed skaters. Possibly they should be right up front in this story for they provided more thrills, chills, spills and laughs than ever before.

Top honors in the skating division must go to the Broadhurst family. Al, by taking the men's seniors, became the first competitor in Derby history to win every

The Winners

Boys Midgets—Carl Beckman, Jr., Wilmington.
Girls Midgets—Peggy Ann Fox, Lynn.
Boys Juveniles—Joseph Boucher, Fitchburg.
Girls Juveniles—Jane Broadhurst, Roskilde.
Boys Juniors—John Bennett, Fitchburg.
Girls Juniors—Aldrina LeBel, Meriden.
Boys Intermediates—Edward Grant, Worcester.
Girls Intermediates—Ellen Horgan, Worcester.
Boys Seniors—Alfred Broadhurst, Roskilde.
Girls Seniors—Lois Ann O'Connor, Worcester.
Servicemen's Special—Ivan Rosalsky, U. S. N., New London, Ct.

class from the midgets through the seniors.

His little sister, Jane, captured the girl's juvenile and brother Frank should have made it a triple. Frank had the intermediate tucked away—he was a half lap ahead with a half lap to go but stumbled and by the time he regained his footing, Eddie Grant came up to win. Frankie took a second.

Grant's victory gave Worcester a "triple" for Ellen Horgan was best in the intermediates and Lois Ann O'Connor nabbed senior laurels.

Then there were the Backman kids. In the boys' midgets, they finished one-two-three. Carl Knute and Leon—another Derby record. Sister Janie took a second in the girls' intermediates to make it quite a day for them, too.

REFeree's DAUGHTER WINS

Fitchburg, long an incubator for great skaters, produced its usual quota of two winners—Joey Boucher showing the way in the juvenile and John Bennett grabbing the junior. Aldrina LeBel brought further glory to the famed barrel jumping family by easily sweeping the girls' junior division.

Referee Joe Fox naturally got a great "boot" out of the girls' midget, for his 11-year-old youngster, Peggy Ann, proved best here.

That takes care of all the winners except for Ivan Rosalsky, a Middle from New London, Ct., who outsped a dozen soldiers and sailors in a Servicemen's Special. There's so much more we could say but we'll have to halt here.

Thanks for Silver Skates Triumph

The tremendous success of the Silver Skates Derby was due in no small measure to the wholehearted co-operation and efforts of:

Captain Thomas Casey of Station 1 who detailed a police squad; the Boston City Hospital for providing doctors and nurses; Karl Rohde for his fine medical arrangements and band; Bob Murphy and the Garden staff; Billy Mallon, who did his usual great job as announcer; the New England Skating Ass'n the Commonwealth Skating Club; each and every one of the officials and, of course, Director Ben Lavis and his aides.

The Record-American wishes to thank them all and everybody else no matter how small a part he or she played—all together they made this the grandest Derby of all time.

with this thought—there's a clinch to be at least 13,000 at next year's Derby

Why This Man LOST HIS HAIR

When this man noticed the first danger signals he ignored them. When his scalp itched he put oily tonic on it. When he combed his hair and found an excessive hair-fall he consoled himself with the thought that it would grow back just as fast. "Too busy," he said, to take a few simple treatments. Now it's too late.

Don't ignore nature's own warnings. See John E. Warner for a free private consultation today. No case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance.

Robinson Go for Lytell If He Defeats Chemel

By JACK CONWAY

BERT LYTELL, Philadelphia middleweight, will be signed to clash with Ray (Sugar) Robinson if he wins over Henry Chemel in their 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tonight.

It is likely that by the time the boxers enter the ring that Lytell will rule a favorite even though he lost the decision in his last meeting with Chemel. On that occasion Lytell finished with a rush that made the task of the officials a difficult one.

Lytell took the last Chemel match on short notice and so did not have any time in which to train. It will be a different story tonight as he has been working hard for this match since he scored such an impressive win over Bob McNutt.

Lytell is a southpaw and a better than average boxer. His speed and skill baffled Chemel in the latter stages of their recent bout, while McNutt was helpless before the boxing craft and hitting power of his shifty opponent.

Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin Club already has Ray Robinson's promise to clash with Lytell in the event the latter wins from Chemel. Robinson would be giving away weight to Lytell, but Ray has never concerned himself about a few pounds.

Robinson, in the opinion of this writer, can defeat Freddy Cochrane, world's welterweight champion, and Tony Zale, middleweight king.

I talked with Cochrane when he was recently in Boston.

"After I have had several bouts," said Cochrane, "I shall give Robinson a crack at my title. It is the biggest possible money match, and now that I have received a medical discharge from the Navy I am anxious to increase my bankroll."

Chemel will try to upset Lytell's plans for getting the Robinson bout. Chemel is a hard right hand puncher, and he feels that if he can connect with a few of his Sunday punches that he will slow Lytell down.

Baseball Too Cautious

WHEN J. EDGAR HOOVER, head of the F. B. I., declared that baseball leaders should be more forceful in their stand for the continuance of the game in war time he voiced the opinion of most of the fans. Big league baseball has adopted a weak kneed policy in discussing war issues as they affect ball players.

Rather than enter into possible controversy and possibly be accused of trying to get any special favors, baseball leaders have kept quiet. They have not come out and given the public a clear idea of what they would like to do in view of increased draft quotas and service legislation.

Baseball has shown a lack of leadership. It is more apparent each day that the national pastime lost its greatest strength in the death of Judge Landis.

Landis so completely dominated baseball for a period of years that there is not even a good second man around to take over his duties. Meanwhile there has been a bitter undercurrent fight between the take place in the armed forces might be of more value to national morale playing baseball than he would filling an ordinary unskilled job in a defense plant.

The astute baseball minds shy away from such forceful action.

They keep pulling strings in the hope that someone will help them in their present predicament. They would do much better to frankly ask for what they consider their rights.

There is a golden opportunity in baseball for a man of courage who knows the game and in whom the public has confidence. A real leader could do much for the national pastime. He might even be able to convince the magnates that they should do something of importance for war charities. Baseball's contribution to war charities has been very slim. It has been overshadowed by racing, the ice carnivals, boxing, hockey, stars like Bob Hope, the Garden-Arena Derby and golf.

Baseball leaders have been very snug in their attitude towards war measures and war charities. Personally I have not the slightest admiration for them. It is time they realized there is a part in war for baseball as well as other sports. It should accept the burdens of the situation as well as the gains.

Justin Smith Silver Skates Ace

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Who'd you like best in the Silver Skates Derby? Was it Eleanor O'Meara, Jane Weiss, Al Broadhurst, Janet Bachman or the Lebls? Or was it youthful Justin Smith, the 95-pound eastern novice skating champi on from Pawtucket, R. I.?

No Matter. Having seen the O'Mearas, Weisses, Broadhursts, Bachmans and Lebls win their share of applause and titles in years past, let's turn the spotlight on Master Smith, the most talented figure skater of his age ever to appear in this section.

Justin E. Smith, Jr., will be 12 years of age on Feb. 13. He is in the sixth grade at Moses Brown School, Providence, R. I. His mother skated before him. He is the one who started him on his competitive career. His father has an office at 222 Summer st., Boston.

Justin Jr., stands 4-9, weighs 95 pounds "with my coat on," and brought the Silver Skates audience of 12,000 to its feet time and again with his split jumps, axels, Slachows and particularly his spread eagles. His poise would do credit to a 19-year-old skater. His rhythm and co-ordination are remarkable for one of his years.

Like most of the other soloists at the Derby, he's a pupil of Edi Scholdan at the Arena. He's been skating since he was 5, spent some time at Lake Placid, where he won the Eastern juvenile championship, really came into his own since he went under Scholdan's wing two winters ago.

With Gloria Peterson of Seattle he won the junior dance championship at Lake Placid last summer and only Friday night won the Eastern Skating novice championship in Boston.

JUSTIN SMITH, JR. HAS "IT"

Do juvenile figure skaters have big league idols like embryonic ball players?

"My hero is Bill Grimditch of Philadelphia," said the personable Justin. "He's a former U. S.

singles champion, now a lieutenant in the Army."

Master Justin is the youngest skater ever to pass the difficult Silver Dance test, which he accomplished last summer at Placid. In addition he's one of the finest fancy divers of his age in New England.

"I love to dive, but my summer hobby is fishing," he said between exhibitions at the Garden. "Dad takes me and Donald (brother) to camp in Maine every summer, and we really have fun."

Not half so much as the 12,000 in the Garden had watching him skate. Spectators said he gives promise of eclipsing the nationally famous Robin Lee and Eddie Shipstad.

BACHMAN—Janet Bachman, 10-year-old Silver Skates favorite, injured her head in a fall after she finished second in the girls' juvenile final and was taken to Mass. General for observation. This is the fifth year she has participated in the Derby and is the unanimous "people's choice," pig-tails flying. Brothers, Carl, 11, Knute, 9, and son, 8, finished second, third and fourth in the championships final. The Bachmans are from Wilmington.

BROADHURST—Frank Broadhurst, 16, with a comfortable lead, tripped on the second last corner in the intermediates' final and thus was deprived of a well-merited victory. But sister Jane, 12, won the girls' juvenile final and 12-year-old Alfred completed the cycle by lapping the field in the men's two-mile championship race. Al, a senior at Roslindale High, won his first Silver Skates race when 11. In 1941 he won the juveniles, in '43 the junior boys, in '44 the intermediates, and this year the seniors, as well as the lap prize.

Mother Ethel Broadhurst is a former New England skating champion, and father Al is president of the Bay State Skating Club, which has won the Silver Skates team prize the last three years running. Their home is at 5 Marion st., Roslindale. Al will be graduated from Roslindale High in June, will be 18 in July and expects to enter the Maritime Academy on the Cape. In addition to the Silver Skates title he has won the Mass. State championship at Worcester, the N. E. outdoor title at Fitchburg and the R. I. State title in Providence. A class is written all over the family.

Writers Urge Tobin Keep Kenney, du Mont

Reappointment of State Conservation Commr. Raymond J. Kenney and Fish and Game Director, Francis du Mont was unanimously urged by the New England Outdoor Writers' Ass'n, meeting in Boston, in a telegram to Governor Tobin. Thirty-nine members urged the reappointments, especially with a view to the New England regional program now being mapped.

82-METER SKI LEAP
MOSCOW, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Russian skier, Konstantin Kudrshov, jumped 82 meters yesterday to set a new ski record for the Soviet Union.

Careless Play Costly to Bruins

By BILL GRIMES

Passing by many opportunities to beat the Rangers by a wide margin, the Bruins settled for a 3-3 tie last night at the Boston Garden.

Due to the fact that the draw, at least, protected the Bruins' four point lead over Rangers, it was an opportune time for the Rossmen to get that game out of their systems.

But the numerous mistakes they could have breezed home. Instead, they were hard pressed to the final whistle and probably were lucky that the Blue Shirts didn't pop in a goal which would have knocked them off, in the dying minutes.

The Bruins played the type of hockey they usually come up with in Madison Sq. Garden. The careless play gave the impression that they were over-confident.

Until they are safely in the play-offs, the Rossmen cannot afford to enter any game with a superiority complex. They've got a tough row to hoe and unless they bear down from the opening face off until the final bell, they're going to find it tough shedding from now until the end of the campaign.

The Rossmen have four home games to play before they go on the road again. They can strengthen their lien on fourth place by taking three out of four games they're scheduled to play at the Garden between tomorrow night and one week from Saturday when the Rangers will be back for their final appearance.

TOUGH TASK FOR RANGERS

For a fortnight, the Rangers will be pitted against the same opposition the Bruins took on a week ago, a home and home series with Canadiens and then the Red Wings. And that's a mouthful for any club in the league.

The Canucks still have the Indian sign on Jack Adams' Detroiters. Last night the world's champions hung a 3 to 1 defeat on the Red Wings and have now weathered no less than 19 games without a defeat, 17 victories and two ties.

Ted Kennedy had Mike Karakas' number last night. He scored three goals for the Maple Leafs and the Blackhawks went down to a 4 to 2 defeat, after beating Boston and tying Canadiens on the road.

JOCKEY McDOUGALL DIES

TORONTO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Jockey Ernest Mc Dougall, 25, died Saturday only a few hours before he was to enter a hospital to undergo an operation. He had been connected with several prominent eastern stables.
